

ROOSEVELT ON PACKING HOUSE

Forwards To Congress Report Of The Government Experts On The Conditions.

IN HASTE TO CLEAN UP BUILDINGS

Almost Pathetic Tragic Situation Said To Exist In Packingtown, Chicago, Among The Great Meat Industries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., June 8.—In response to a request from the house committee on agriculture, President Roosevelt today forwarded to Representative Wadsworth, chairman of that committee, the report made to him by the committee of the department of agriculture regarding conditions in the Chicago meat packing-houses. Accompanying the report was a letter from the President, in which he points out there is no conflict in substance between the Neill-Reynolds report and that of the agricultural department experts. The President quotes the letter as received from the most competent and trustworthy witness in Chicago to the effect the packing-house proprietors are manifesting almost "humorous haste to clean up and repave even to plan for future changes." New toilet-rooms are being provided with additional dressing-rooms and clean towels. The report says: "Haste towards reform would have been amusing if it were not so nearly tragic." The President says his investigations have not been completed, but "enough has been developed in my judgment to call for immediate action."

ARE NOT WORRIED ABOUT THE MEATS

Order Small Amounts Yesterday, But Have As Many Calls As Ever Before.

Have you continued to order meat since the packing house exposures just as before?
There seems to be but little difference in the trade in this city. Yesterday the restaurant men, the hotel, landlords and the boarding house keepers were called up and asked if their patrons had tabooed fresh meat, after reading some of the revolting tales of the inquisitors. Almost to a man they answered that they could not notice the slightest difference. In fact Janesville seems to be too busy to bother about the troubles of other localities. One prominent host said that he expected to have little call for steaks, chops and roasts yesterday and did not order the usual amount of meat—but in a large supply of eggs, vegetables, etc., but he was surprised to have almost every patron order "meat" in one form or another. "The meats that come into Janesville are the best that can be had," said a dealer this morning. "Janesville gets choice carcasses and pays the top price for them. There is no need for alarm among the meat users of this city."

SPANISH WAR VETS WOULD HAVE A CAMP

Meeting Will Be Held Next Week For Purpose of Organizing—Seven Graves Here.

At a meeting of Janesville residents who are veterans of the late Spanish-American war or Philippine insurrection an effort will be made to organize a camp in the Wisconsin department of the national society, which was formed along the lines of the G. A. R. The date of the meeting is not set, but it will be held some time next week in the Grand Army hall. This will make the third effort to such an end on the part of the local ex-soldiers. Should the purpose be accomplished it is not likely, however that the Janesville body would be represented at the state encampment in Racine July 2 and 4. The Wisconsin membership now numbers 1,200, a gain of 400 in the past year. One of the main duties of the organization is to decorate the graves of the departed comrades. There are seven buried here.

STATE NOTES

The Lincoln club of Racine, numbering 250 members, the largest and strongest republican club in southern Wisconsin, has unanimously voted to support H. A. Cooper for congress.
Surveys have been completed for a proposed drainage district in the town of Doon, north of Eagle lake in Racine county. About 4,000 acres of land are included in the district.
The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, in session at Syracuse, N. Y., elected as second vice president, F. P. Fargo of Lake Mills, Wis., and as superintendent of advanced registry, M. H. Gardner of Delavan, Wis.
It is probable that a large automobile factory will be located at Corliss. The Corliss Iron and Engine company, formerly the Brown-Corliss Engine company, has donated forty acres of ground for the proposed plant. Back of the concern are said to be Kenosha and Kansas City capitalists.
A class of five, were graduated yesterday from Rochester academy, Burlington. Wednesday evening Judge E. R. Belden of Racine delivered the graduating address.
The commencement exercises for the Union high school of Black River Falls took place at the opera hall on Thursday, the graduating class consisting of twenty. The commencement address was given by Prof. Judson Q. Rosebush of Lawrence university.

FARMING PROFESSION IS VERY IMPORTANT

President of the University Tells Students It Is an Important Branch.

Professor Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, in the commencement address which he delivered at the Case School of Applied Science at Cleveland, O., last Thursday, dwelt at some length upon the important change that has taken place in the status of farming, and the preparation now required for a successful pursuit of agriculture. This change, he said, means that agriculture is now recognized as a profession. He spoke in part as follows:
"When it was first proposed that there should be a college course in agriculture, the idea was regarded as absurd, not only by farmers but by men educated for other lines of work. It was said: 'What use is there in educating the farmer? Now, however, it is recognized that the apprentice system is as great a mistake for the farmer as for the engineer. A man who learns farming while doing farm work takes an unnecessary length of time in gaining handicapped knowledge. Such a man is handicapped throughout his life by lack of scientific knowledge of his subject. For it is now recognized that agriculture is an extremely complex applied science. The wise solution of the daily problems of the farmer require a knowledge of the principles of pure physics, chemistry and biology. The man who has had training in these sciences and his applications to agriculture obtains much larger returns from his fields and these more easily than does the man lacking such training. This is now so well understood that the enlightened farmers are sending their sons to agricultural schools, and young men contemplating the avocation of agriculture, not sons of farmers, are going to agricultural colleges. This change means that agriculture is now recognized as a profession. Already this recognition has immeasurably dignified this most ancient and fundamental art. And what a transformation this has made in the intellectual life of the farmer!
"The scientific farmer has the knowledge which will at once give him financial success and transform his occupation from one of drudgery to one of wholesome, uplifting, enlightening pleasure. Although it may be in the future, the time is not far distant when it will be recognized that every man who has charge of a farm must have had a training in applied science."

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

Mrs. Mary Oliver, aged 67, was killed in a runaway yesterday near Owango, Ill.
Edward C. Ruit, a Shelby county, Illinois, farmer, committed suicide by shooting yesterday.
Dr. Warren H. Thomas of Elkhart, Ind., aged 65, died in his buggy yesterday while returning from a professional call.
General Edmund M. Pope of Mankato, colonel of the Eighth New York cavalry in the civil war and breveted brigadier general of volunteers, died Tuesday at Grand Marais, Minn., where he had been conducting a bank.
George W. Sutherland of Clintonville, Wis., a veteran of the civil war and said to have been the first man on top of Lookout mountain at the time of the great battle, died yesterday.
The Barret saloon and gambling-houses at South Bend, Ind., said to be the largest west of New York, closed last night because the commissioners refused to renew the liquor license. It means the beginning of a fight against all gambling and saloons in South Bend.
The retail coal dealers of Michigan and Indiana yesterday elected F. A. Hobbs of Benton Harbor, Mich., president, A. B. Meyer of Indianapolis, vice president, and J. W. Landrum of Terre Haute, Ind., and E. A. Reader of Cedar Springs, Mich., members of the executive committee.

JOHN A. YOUNG SAYS HE IS WORTH 40,000

Brodhead Hotel Man Admits His Fortune in Preliminary Divorce Proceedings.

The adverse examination of John A. Young, the well known Brodhead hotel man, in a divorce case in which he is defendant was continued before Court Commissioner Thomas, Luchinger at Monroe yesterday afternoon. Mr. Young was examined in regard to his wealth and stated that he was worth $32,000. At the former examination he admitted that he had given his daughters $8,000, which makes his net worth $40,000 according to his own statement. Mr. Young was hurt last week while at Balcon, Ill. An iron cover had been removed from the depot sidewalk and Mr. Young and two other men collided. Two fell into the opening and one died from his injuries while the other is in a serious condition. Mr. Young was fortunate enough to fall on the walk but was quite severely injured.

PLENTY OF CARP IN THE RIVER AND LAKE

No Need to Fear Salmon Industry Will Decrease Under Present Conditions.

If anyone has any fears as to the decline of material for the salmon canning industry of the country, a few minutes watching of the carp fishing about in the waters of Rock river and Lake Koshkonong will dispel any such forebodings. The man who has been given the privilege of clearing the lake of carp has a life job ahead of him and a most remunerative market.

RUSSIAN REVOLUTIONISTS MERELY WAIT OPPORTUNITY

Are Arming The Workingmen And Drilling Them For A Bloody Conflict.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Moscow, June 8.—There is a noticeable increase in revolutionary activity here. It is evident the leaders are preparing to take advantage of the first opportunity to start an armed uprising and the workmen are being systematically armed with Mauser rifles and drilled under the supervision of army reserve officers. Revolutionary meetings are being held nightly in the industrial sections. The revolutionary emissaries have been sent into the country to incite the land-hungry peasants to appropriate land.

WISCONSIN MAY HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO WIN NOW

Crew That Goes To Poughkeepsie Has Drawn Ideal Place In The Big Regatta.

Madison, Wis., June 8.—One week more of training remains for the University of Wisconsin crews before they leave for the east to take part in the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie June 22. While the badgers have entered crews in all three of the principal races, the varsity eight, freshman eight and varsity four, it is doubtful whether more than the varsity eight will race in the eastern competition. This is on account of the lack of funds. Coach O'Dea has practically decided to keep his men out of the four-oared race, as facilities have not been good here for training for that contest. Were a freshman and a varsity eight taken on the trip, it would be easy to make up a varsity four, because the substitutes ordinarily taken along for the varsity and freshman boats would then row in the four. However, little specific training has been had for the small boat, and Coach O'Dea is disinclined to assume the risk of the western institution making a "bad showing." The Wisconsin varsity eight is said to be exceedingly fast this spring, but no time has been given out to test this popular saying, which may prove to be merely the annual "best ever" report, circulated by the student managers of the crew in order to stimulate the giving of subscriptions toward the expense fund of the eastern trip. The drawings for places in the regatta resulted agreeably for the badgers. They have course number three in the varsity eight-oared race. This places them in good water, perhaps the best in the race, and incidentally it will not permit of excuses to be made after the race on the score of bad water. Two years ago the Wisconsin boys fared poorly, arriving at the finish in the tail-end position. It was explained that the western crew had a position then too near the shore and got the shallow water and back current. A year ago another "bad as can be" finish was made, and the defeated crew explained that the position was so far out as to get the rough waves. This year the badgers must make good or find another and better excuse.

INTERNATIONAL ACTION TO EXTIRPATE ANARCHISM

Pan-American Congress At Rio Janeiro May Make Move..Reds Are Driven From Southern Republics.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., June 8.—The bomb outrage in Madrid last week, which came near taking the lives of King Alfonso and his bride, has again aroused the nations to the necessity of co-operating in measures for the extirpation of anarchism. It is learned from a trustworthy source that the initiative in a movement which, if it is carried out, will close the door of every nation to persons professing anarchistic doctrines and enable the extradition as common criminals of anarchists involved in the assassination of or attempts upon the life of a ruler.
It is said that Secretary Root, after conference with the President and with various members of the diplomatic corps in Washington, is considering the advisability of recommending that authority be given the Pan-American Congress, which will assemble next month in Rio Janeiro, to consider measures for the suppression of anarchism. Of course the decision of the United States will determine whether the Congress shall take action. Confidence is felt that the South American countries, already acquiescent in the proposal, will find short shrift in South America. The man with the bomb or the bullet faces an unpleasant alternative—deportation or incarceration. The war is up, not in a single country, but throughout the entire southern half of the western hemisphere. All through South America the anarchist is the object of popular hatred as well as of political repression. If he undertakes to disseminate his creed he is promptly taken into custody, and released only upon agreement to leave the country. More than this, his kind is prevented as far as possible from settling there.
Action by the Pan-American Congress would undoubtedly be followed by an exchange of views by Europe and the Americans which would lead either to an agreement under which all would act along similar lines for the eradication of anarchism. One of the plans proposed is for the institution of an international police surveillance, which would circulate information regarding the movements of followers of anarchism among the several governments for their guidance and action.
Europe has long appreciated the necessity of united international action for the extirpation of anarchism, but because of the absence of constitutional or statutory authorization and of labor conditions in the United States, the Washington government has consistently refrained from joining in any international movement to this end.
The government, realizes that the suppression of anarchism is a question which must be handled with the utmost delicacy because of the possibility that action might infringe the rights of the individual. Under the constitution, congress is prohibited from making any law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press. Notwithstanding these provisions, however, many leading jurists are of the opinion that congress has ample authority to enact a law defining anarchism and punishing all advocates or followers of its doctrines.
Italy, Birthplace of Anarchy.
Rome, June 8.—The infamous and shameful attempt on the lives of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria last week was perhaps heard by no other European country with such sincere sorrow as by Italy, and the feeling was intensified when it was learned that the perpetrator of the outrage was an Italian. The latter fact occasioned little surprise, however, as Italy is the land most productive of anarchists. The peninsula has had during the last twenty-five years the unenviable distinction of providing most of the instruments for so-called political crimes.
But it has been only during the past decade or so that the serious "work" of Italian anarchy has progressed. It began with the murder of President Sadi Carnot by Sante Caserio in 1894. The success of this first "operation" evidently encouraged other anarchists, for their crimes followed each other closely. Lega fired at Crispi, Acciarotti, tried to stab King Humbert, Angiolo shot dead the Spanish premier, Canovas del Castillo, Luchini assassinated the Empress of Austria and Bresci killed King Humbert.
It is a remarkable feature of this long and atrocious list that not one of the murderers committed their crimes before having been and lived abroad, where the germ of what is called "individualistic" anarchy are imbibed. But the fact remains that Italy, notwithstanding the kind-heartedness and gentleness of her inhabitants, furnishes the arms which execute the diabolical criminal plans conceived by others. Two reasons are advanced for this. One is that human life is held more cheaply in Italy than in almost any other civilized country. The second reason which is believed to make the Italian a most ready recruit to anarchy is his hereditary leaning toward secret societies.

SPRITES OF THE AIR.

Young Misses Who Seem to Run, Walk and Dance in the Air.

With the Carl Hagenbeck Greater Shows, which exhibit here on Friday, June 15, the Aragon quartette of high wire performers will make their first American arena appearance, and with their introduction something absolutely new and sensation in this line of effort will be presented. The Aragon quartette is not composed of the ordinary variety of equilibristes, who, with the aid of huge balancing poles, perform a feat of more than ample proportions stretched a few feet from the ground. The Aragon sisters, for they are four young misses not yet out of their teens, have been fittingly called sprites of the air, for the field of their operations is on a slender and almost invisible wire cable stretched at the highest point under the dome of the tent. On this strand, with a sang froid beyond conception, they indulge in exploits that are the marvel of adults of similar calling and feats that would be remarkable were they accomplished on the ground. They verily seem to run, walk and dance in the air. They skip rope on their lofty perches with childish nonchalance; form human wheelbarrows; walk two abreast on the narrow path; form human pillars with feet to shoulders two high, leaping to and from these positions; throw somersaults from feet to feet and interpret a cakewalk in perfect time with the music of the band. Their performances are concluded with thrilling single and double somersaulting dives to a receiving net far below. Among other mid-air performers are the Elliot trio of high horizontal bar experts. These dexterous athletes accomplish terrific and treacherous tricks of long leaps, conjunctive giant swings, far and fearless divers, daring dives and single and double somersaults through space. This act also serves to introduce Loole Schmutz, a German comedian and gymnast, whose fearful falls to an elastic net and his rebound to the high bars above, are tricks original with and accomplished by him alone. These are but two of the many features going to make up the thrilling mid-air circus presented by the Hagenbeck shows.

HAVE ARRANGED THE PROGRAMME

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION EXERCISES COMPLETE IN DETAIL.

FORTHREE DISTINCT NIGHTS

As Usual the Graduation Week Is Full of Interest to Students and Their Friends.

Arrangements for the commencement exercises in the high school are now complete. The preparation of this program and the assignment of the parts to the individuals is no small task, and the exercises that are to be given this year promise to be among the best in the history of the school. The class of '06 is quite evenly divided as to young men and young women and they have undergone much hard training to accomplish what they have now completed. Some time ago Mrs. Janet B. Day gave the students special vocal training and the audience will undoubtedly have no trouble in hearing the speakers in their theses and individual parts.

Show Training

The young men, as a whole, show the training that they have had in the Forum and Lyceum societies and the young women also have accomplished much in the literary work of the high school. The class started out with about one hundred and twenty-five members, but before the Freshman year was finished the class dwindled down to about seventy-five members. Because of the large cast in the play which is to be given this year the number of scientific theses is small.

The Exercises

Commencement exercises will begin on the evening of June 12th. This night will be devoted to the theses, essays and class exercises with music by the high school orchestra and high school glee club during the intervals. The program that has been arranged for this evening is as follows:

KICKERS' KOLUM

Not Too Much Fiction.
Editor Kickers' Kolum: According to report a Janesville divine recently offered the public library management a rather uncomplimentary criticism on the fact that it possessed too many books of fiction. In the mind of the writer this minister should be scored. It seems rather out of place to say "too much fiction" when there are not enough novels to fill five racks and there is a collection of volumes on biography, history, sciences, arts, etc., large enough to fill more than five. Then, too, the call for fiction is greater by far than the demand for books of all other classes combined and the library was established and is maintained for the general public, and by whom it is supported. DYING IS A LUXURY IN MANY LOCALITIES

Price of Coffins Continue to Rise—Will People Stop Dying Now?

Dying is fast becoming a luxury. The rapid rise in the prices of funeral boxes, even of the plainest type, is fast raising the question can people afford to die? Local undertakers are of the opinion that the usual death rate will continue, however, and fear that deaths will cease because prices have risen so scorned. The coffin trust appears to be responsible for the gradual rise in prices. Recently a raise of twenty-five per cent was made in the materials and an order went out from New York to charge the trade more money. When a local undertaker was asked the reason for this increase in price over the former, he thought it was due to the high price which is now being paid for skilled labor over former years. That highly polished rare woods of which many of the best modern coffins are made, are becoming rarer with each year. Hardware is also very high. The price which is now being paid for screws and other metals used in the coffins is much advanced over the former rate. Such wood as mahogany, teak wood and vermillion of which the choicest coffins are manufactured in particular is getting very scarce. Another element in the advance is declared to be the recent action of the manufacturers of undertakers' hardware who decided to demand 25 per cent more for their product. These metals range from lead to silver. This advance did not affect the coffin manufacturer directly, but put an additional charge upon the undertaker who fits these coffins with any sort of handles and plate which the purchaser may select. That the public will be the ultimate sufferer is admitted by the dealers. The raise in the price of coffins is the last advance to be noted by the general public, which is an intricate purchase and not critical of figures. Further, it has no standard of values in this last commodity of all where prices range from $25 to $2,000, according to the flexibility of the purchaser's purse and the quality of the material used in the manufacture.

Model 'Hello Girls' At LaX.

Oshkosh, North-Western: Human nature is pretty much the same the world over. The La Crosse Tribune complains that too many people of that city are careless about giving the local baseball team the support which it deserves, but content themselves with calling up "central" to ask how the game came out. If they are able to ascertain the score in this manner, however, the telephone girls at La Crosse must be a great deal more accommodating than they are in a good many other places.

Where Their Efforts Will End.

Milwaukee Journal: If La Pollette and other Republican radicals keep on, they'll make Bryan a conservative candidate for president in 1908.

sent their grievances, before this body, and a delegation was sent to Freeport for that purpose. Some of the preachers were inclined to be weak kneed, but the presiding bishop was level headed, and refused to mix up in the middle. The managers of the book concern stood their ground, and won out. They have the satisfaction now of knowing that the church stands behind them for Bishop McCabe recently outlined the attitude of Methodism toward labor unions, in a sermon delivered in Brooklyn, before the members of the New York East Conference. The Bishop said in part:

"I have received letters from friends and labor men, asking me to state the position of the Methodist Church on the labor problem, and I take this opportunity to outline our position. I want to state the attitude of the church, and this statement is official."

"We are opposed to having a small percentage of labor men run the entire laboring class in a high-handed and authoritative manner."

"We are the friends of labor, but we are as much the friends of the 90 per cent of the laborers who resent the bossism of the unions as we are of the 10 per cent who are doing the bossing."

"It is an imposition for a few men to be able to say, 'Join our union or you cannot work.' It is an imposition to refuse to allow men to work as they will if they work honestly and earn their livelihood by honest sweat."

"As now constituted labor unions can not long stand. Either they must reform themselves or they will cease to exist, as they are now unfair and unjust, and the honest workman can not long be subjected to oppression without rising in revolt."

"I want every one of the 300 ministers here to accept this as his creed and preach it."

"I am stating the position of the Methodist Church today at this conference, as the members of the church do not seem to be disposed to state it themselves."

"I want the statement to be published broadcast, so that there can be no doubt as to the attitude of Methodism toward honest labor."

"I believe this should become part of the creed of every Protestant church."

Telling of the building of Solomon's temple by 80,000 men, the Bishop said that 3,000 of these were overseers.

"These men were the right kind of walking delegates," he said. "These men were walking delegates who saw that their companions did a proper share of their work."

"How would it have been had these walking delegates told the other 76,000 that if they did not join the union they could have no hand in rearing the great temple?"

"I received a letter this morning from a man who wanted to know whether the Methodist Episcopal Church was a friend of labor."

"I want to answer that question fairly. We are the friends of labor, of every man and woman who earns his or her living by the sweat of their faces."

"And anyone who is not a friend of 100 per cent of the working people is not a friend of any of them."

The Methodist Church, as an organization, therefore, stands for the open shop, and if the pastorate recognizes the importance of the question, it will not only become a part of the creed, but it will mean more than a dead letter."

There is nothing supernatural or spectacular about the labor problem. It has nothing to do with the life hereafter but it has everything to do with the here and now. It is one of the intensely practical questions of the day. The kind of a question in which the people are deeply interested, and yet they seldom hear it discussed from the pulpit."

Methodist ministers have no occasion to neglect this important question after the stand taken, and duty outlined by one of the leading bishops of the denomination. The people of Janesville will have an opportunity to meet Bishop McCabe as he presides at the Wisconsin Conference which holds its annual session at the Cargill Memorial Church in September.

PRESS COMMENT.

Again Claims Public Eye. Milwaukee Sentinel: Our Friend John F. Dietz of Thornapple dam fame, has again become a member of the Front Page club.

Goes Janesville. One Better. Sheboygan Journal: There is a circus "war" on at Janesville. That's nothing. Sheboygan has a paying "war" on that is a circus.

And See What They'll Show. Chicago Tribune: In the meantime everybody of an inquiring turn of nose is free to go and inspect the stock yards for himself.

Won't Get Out of Limelight. Exchange: Dr. Crapney having appeared, another long discussion of heresy is one of the coming terrors of summer.

Not All Would Bear It. Exchange: It would be offensive, perhaps, to suggest that the inspection should be extended to the kitchens of the hotels and restaurants.

His Only Care—A Dam. Madison Journal: Dietz of Thornapple won't care if he is called a rebel. The only title he wants to hold is that of his famous dam.

A "Cash On Delivery" Expression. Truth: The expression of the British woman of the day is altogether different from that of her predecessors. British woman of thirty years ago had, generally, a "most gentle" kind expression while there is a cold cash on delivery look in the eyes of most of our women today.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS

Plans Completed: The boys of the Congregational Boys' club will meet for their promised treat on Saturday afternoon at half-past one. Plans are in progress to give the boys an unusually fine time.

Broke a Knee Cap: Walter Rice was thrown from his bicycle at a railroad crossing early Monday morning and one of his knee-caps was fractured. He will be laid up for some time.

Five Days for Drunkenness: Will Kelly pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness preferred against him in municipal court this morning and went to the county jail for a sojourn of five days.

Shot a Lynx: Addison Tubbs of Whitewater shot a lynx in his back-yard Saturday.

Early Strawberries: W. B. Davis who lives opposite the golf links, has had his strawberries a week earlier than usual this year. Mr. Davis also sometimes has a second crop just before the snow comes.

Orfordville Minister to Wed: C. Wesley Boag and Miss Elsie Lucia Taylor of Orfordville visited Janesville today and filed application for a marriage license.

Salary Matter Not Considered: Howard Lee, who has returned from the meeting of county clerks in Milwaukee, says that the report that the organization intends to urge or agitate the matter of larger salaries for that office is entirely erroneous. No suggestion of any such steps was made at the session. The main idea is to secure uniformity in the systems of conducting the office, and more clearness in the laws with which the officer has to deal, together with the social advantages which such an organization may afford.

Is Not Cotton: The flaky substance that are flying about the city is not cotton floss, but the blossoms of the cottonwood trees that line the river bank.

THERE'S A REASON.

While we are all like sheep in a certain sense, in following each other, yet when it comes to selecting a doctor or a dentist or the spending of our money, we do not act without having a well-defined REASON for our actions.

This is why Dr. Richards has built up such a splendid dental practice. He furnishes a REASON for your selecting him to do your work.

A lady was just in to consult him this morning and she said, "You made my mother's tooth a year ago and she is delighted with them."

"You have worked for a number of my friends and they all said for me to come to YOU for my dentistry." So she had well-defined REASONS for her choice of a dentist.

To sum it up: He gives you splendid work. He hurts you LESS than any dentist that ever looked in your mouth. He has a HEART when he comes to hand you your bill. He goes to the limit to PLEASE you.

Now, in view of such facts does it not strike you that such a workman is just the man whom you wish to look after your teeth?

Mrs. Whitney Fisher's home west of the city is today the scene of the first of a series of picnics to be given by the newly-organized Summer Club of Household Economics. Miss Coleman, assisted by the Misses Bess MacDonald, Lilla Soverhill, Florence Spooner and Margaret Fifield, then demonstrated how a strawberry shortcake should be made and cooked.

JACK DOUGHERTY KNOCKED THROUGH A SALOON WINDOW

In a Sanguinary Battle With Fists Against Thomas Connelly on River Street Last Night.

In a bloody fracas on South River street last evening Jack Dougherty was knocked through the plate glass window front of Sheridan & Byrne's saloon. In municipal court this morning Dougherty and Connelly pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and went to the county jail for 10-day terms in lieu of paying fines of $5 and costs each. The Brethren

By RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1903-1904, BY RIDER HAGGARD

"She did not know it. She only said she knew to force Rosamund away," answered Godwin in the same strained voice. "And then?"

"And then—oh!—having Wulf's express commands, then I went, like you in a dream. I remember little of it. At the door we kissed and parted weeping, and while the guard bowed before me she blessed me beneath her breath. A soldier stepped forward and said, 'Follow me, daughter of Sinaa,' and I followed him."

"We came to a place where was an old Arab among some trees, and with him two led horses. The soldier spoke to the Arab, and I gave him Masouda's letter, which he read. Then he put us on one of the led horses and the soldier mounted the other, and we departed at a gallop. All that evening and last night we rode hard, but in the darkness the soldier left us, and I do not know whether he went. At length we came to that mountain stronghold and waited there, resting the horses and eating food which the Arab had with him, till we saw the embassy, and among them two tall knights."

"See," said the old Arab, "you come the brethren whom you seek. See and give thanks to Allah and to Masouda, who has not led to you and to whom I must now return."

"Oh, my heart wept as though it would burst, and I wept in my joy—weep and blessed God and Masouda. But the Arab, Son of the Sand, told me that for my life's sake I must be silent and keep myself close veiled and disguised even from you until we reached Jerusalem, lest perhaps if they knew me the embassy might refuse escort to the Princess of Baalbek and niece of Saladin."

"Then I promised and asked, 'What of Masouda?' He said that he rode back at speed to save her also, as had been arranged, and that was why he did not take me to Jerusalem himself. But how that was to be done he was not sure as yet. And—and you know the rest, and here, by the grace of God, we three are together again."

"Are," said Godwin, "but where is Masouda and what will happen to her who has dared to venture such a plot as this? Hark you, Wulf, take Lady Rosamund and lodge her with some lady in this city, or, better still, place her in sanctuary with the nuns of the Holy Cross, whence none will dare to draw her, and let her do their habit."

"Yes, yes, but you? Where do you go, Godwin?" said his brother.

"I? I ride back to Ascalon to find Masouda. For the sake of Rosamund and perhaps for my sake also Masouda has run a fearful risk. But tell me, you—what will be the mood of Saladin when at length he finds that she upon whom he had built such hopes has gone. She may have given her life to see Rosamund free to join us in Jerusalem."

Rosamund looked at Godwin, and Godwin looked at Rosamund, and there was understanding in their eyes, for now both of them saw the truth in all its glory and all its horror.

"I think that I should go back also," said Rosamund.

"That shall not be," answered Wulf. "Saladin would kill you for this flight, as he has Syria."

"That cannot be," added Godwin. "Shall the sacrifice of blood be offered in vain? Moreover, it is our duty to prevent you, Rosamund, I know not what has chanced. I go to see, through life, through death, I ride on till I find Masouda and kneel to her in homage."

"And in love," exclaimed Rosamund. "Mayhap," Godwin answered, speaking more to himself than to her.

"Farewell, my little lady," said Rosamund. "Godwin said, 'My part is played. Now I leave you in the keeping of God in heaven and of Wulf on earth.' Should we meet no more here in our country? Is that you two wed here in Jerusalem and travel back to Steeple; there to live in peace if it may be so. Brother Wulf, fare you well also. We part today for the first time and loved from our birth have lived together and loved together and done many a deed together, some of which we can look back upon without shame."

"Oh, Godwin," said Wulf, "we do not part thus easily. Our lady here will be safe enough among the nuns—more safe than I can keep her. Give me an hour, and I will set her there and join you. Both of us owe a debt to Masouda, and it is not right that it should be paid by you alone."

"Nay," answered Godwin, "look upon Rosamund and think what is about to befall this city. Can you leave her at such a time?"

Then Wulf dropped his head, and, trusting himself to speak no more words, Godwin mounted his horse and without so much as looking back rode into the narrow street and out through the gateway till presently he was lost in the distance and the desert.

Wulf and Rosamund watched him go in silence, for they were choked with tears.

"Oh, I would that I were dead who have lived to bring all this woe upon you both and upon that great heart, Masouda. I say, Wulf, I would that I were dead," said Rosamund.

"Like enough the wish will be fulfilled before all is done," answered Wulf wearily. "Only then I pray that I may be dead with you, for now, Rosamund, Godwin has gone for ever as I fear, and you alone are left to me. Come, let us cease complaining, since to dwell upon these griefs cannot help us, and be thankful that for awhile at least we are free. Follow me, Itomund, and we will ride to this unholy to find you shelter if we may."

So they rode on through the narrow streets that were crowded with scared people, for now the news had spread that the embassy had rejected the terms of Saladin. He had offered to give the city food and to suffer its inhabitants to fortify the walls and to hold them till the following Whitsuntide if, should no help reach them, they would swear to surrender them. But they had answered that while they had life they would never abandon the place where their God had died.

So now war was before them—war to the end. And who were they that must bear its brunt? Their leaders were slain or captive, their king a prisoner, their soldiers skeletons on the field of battle. Only the women and children, the sick, the old and the wounded remained, perhaps 80,000 souls in all, but few of whom could bear arms. Yet these few must defend Jerusalem against the might of the victorious Saracen. Little wonder that they walked in the streets till the cry of their despair went up to heaven.

Pushing their path through this sad multitude, who took little note of them, at length they came to the nursery on the sacred Via Dolorosa.

Here the porter told him that the nuns were at prayer in their chapel. Wulf replied that he must see the lady abbess upon a matter which would not delay, and they were shown into a cool and lofty room. Presently the door opened, and through it came the abbess in her white robes, a tall and stately Englishwoman of middle age, who looked at them curiously.

"Lady Abbess," said Wulf, bowing low, "this lady is the daughter and heiress of Sir Andrew D'Arcy, my dear uncle, and in Syria the Princess of Baalbek and niece of Saladin."

The abbess started and asked:

"Is she, then, of their accursed faith, as her name would seem to show?"

"Nay, mother," said Rosamund; "I am a Christian, if a sinful one, and I come here to seek sanctuary lest when they know who I am and he whom at their gates my fellow Christians may surrender me to my uncle, the sultan."

"Tell me the story," said the abbess. And they told her briefly, while she listened, amazed. When they had finished she said:

"Alas, my daughter, how can we save you, whose own lives are at stake? That belongs to God alone. Still, what we can we will do gladly, and here, at least, you may rest for some short while. At the most holy altar of our chapel you shall be given sanctuary, after which no Christian may dare lay a hand upon you, since to do so is a sacrilege that would cost him his soul. Moreover, I counsel that you be enrolled upon our books as a novice and don our garb. Nay," she added, with a smile, noting the look of alarm on the face of Wulf, "the Lady Rosamund need not wear it always unless she should be her wish. Not every novice proceeds to the final vows."

"Long have I been decked in gold embroidered silks and priceless gems," answered Rosamund, "and now I seem to desire that white robe of yours more than anything on earth."

"There Wulf left her and, riding away, reported himself to Balin of Ibelin, the elected commander of the city, who was glad enough to welcome so stout a knight where knights were few."

It was evening, and Godwin's tired horse stumbled slowly through the great camp of the Saracens without the walls of fallen Ascalon. None hindered him, for, having been so long a prisoner, he was known by many, while others thought that he was but one of the surrendered Christian knights. So he came to the great house where Saladin lodged and bade the guard take his name to the sultan, saying that he craved audience of him. Presently he was admitted and found Saladin seated in council among his ministers.

"Sir Godwin," he said sternly, "seeing how you have dealt by me, what brings you back into my camp? I gave you brethren your lives, and you have robbed me of one whom I would not lose."

"We did not rob you, sire," answered Godwin, who knew nothing of this plot. "Nevertheless, I am sure that you would think this I was come from Jerusalem, leaving the princess and my brother there, to tell the truth and to surrender myself to you that I may bear in her place any punishment which you think it to inflict upon the woman Masouda."

"Why should you bear it?" asked Saladin.

"Because, sultan," answered Godwin sadly and with bent head, "whatsoever she did she did for love of me, though without my knowledge. Tell me, is she still here or has she fled?"

"She is still here," answered Saladin shortly. "Would you wish to see her?"

Godwin breathed a sigh of relief. "I do," he answered, "once, if no more. I have words to say to her."

"Doubtless she will be glad to learn how her plot prospered," said Saladin, with a grim smile. "In truth, it was well laid and boldly executed."

HEAVY DOWNPOUR FLOODS STREAMS

FOUR COUNTIES SUFFER FROM THE OVERFLOW.

STREETS ARE UNDER WATER

Week of Thunderstorms and Bains Is Followed by Cloudbursts in Portions of Western Pennsylvania.

Johnstown, Pa., June 8.—Thunder showers, electric storms and heavy downpours of rain that have prevailed throughout western Pennsylvania during the entire week culminated Thursday in cloudbursts in Cambria, Westmoreland, Somerset and Butler counties, that caused the rivers and creeks to overflow, flooding the streets in many communities and disseminating a general flood scare.

At night, however, reports from the various sections affected during the day indicate that the waters are receding, the weather is clearing and all danger of further damage is passed. Early reports indicated the damage would be great. Probably $50,000 will cover all losses sustained in the sections affected.

Creek Rises Seven Feet.

The greatest damage was in Hooversville, Somerset county, 18 miles from this city. Here a veritable cloudburst caused Stony creek to rise seven feet in an hour and a half.

The water reached the first floor of many dwellings and all the factories in the low-lying section of the town were obliged to suspend operations.

Cellars were flooded and a number of streets were under water for a time but, no casualties are known to have resulted.

Schoolhouse Washed Away.

A tenement house in which lived 20 families was ordered vacated as a matter of precaution, and the Hooversville schoolhouse was washed away from its foundation.

Island park, a summer resort, was destroyed by the waters, but as the flood came at an hour when there were no pleasure seekers the loss is confined to the property of the park management. The entire loss in this section is estimated at $25,000.

Comeau River Rises.

The Comeau river, made famous in the history of the Johnstown flood of 1889, swollen by the outpouring from the Stony creek section, began to rise rapidly and caused somewhat of a scare in this city.

The streets along the river bank were soon inundated and mills and factories were obliged to suspend. Street car traffic was soon out of the question, while railroad trains were delayed at outlying points, awaiting the subsiding of the high water.

Telephone and telegraph communication was interrupted for a short time, and this at first caused some apprehension as to the magnitude of the flood.

At night, however, traffic was resumed and all that is left to indicate any danger was feared is the wet and muddy condition of the streets and a few flooded cellars.

INDIANA MINE STRIKE ENDS

JOINT CONFERENCE REACHES AGREEMENT ON WAGES.

Operators Are Said to Have Yielded to Demands of Men for Scale of 1903.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 8.—An agreement which will end the coal strike which has been on in the Ellettsville U. M. W. A. district since April 1, was reached by the scale committee of the Indiana miners and operators at a session held Thursday afternoon.

The miners' delegates have been called to meet to consider the committee's report.

The joint convention of the miners and operators will meet to receive the report and make arrangements to sign the agreement. Details of the understanding reached have not been made public, but it is understood the men get the 1903 scale which they demanded when they went out. On their side, it is stated they agree to some changes in mining conditions to which the operators objected.

Leading operators and miners when asked if there was any likelihood of the agreement meeting with opposition in the convention, said that in past joint conventions a case had not been known where the scale committee reported an agreement that was not accepted and it is regarded as certain that the same action will be taken this time.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters—
Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(First Letter.) "I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, having dizzy spells, chills, headache and back pain."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes Sick Women Well.

ache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(Second Letter.)

"It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared."

Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my periods were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches."

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my periods are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

ABANDONED RACEWAY SLOUGH OF HORRORS

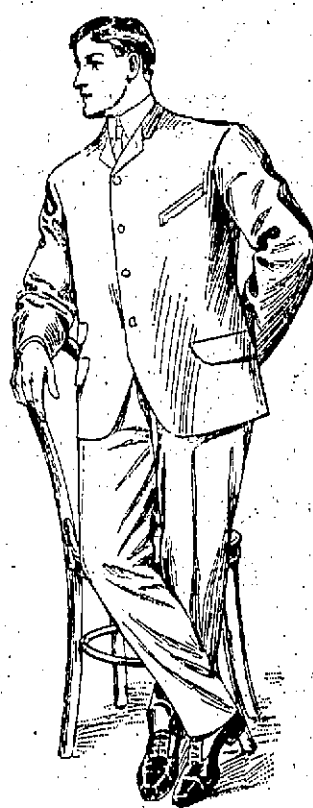

Health Officer and City Attorney Investigate Plague Spot in Heart of City and Issue Notices.

Once more the stagnant waters of the old raceway and the decaying vegetable and animal matter and the sewage dumped therein are giving the people who dwell in its neighborhood good cause for complaint. "It's a wonder we haven't all accumulated the cholera or bubonic plague," said Martin Curtis as he came out of the rear door of his place on West Milwaukee street this morning and regarded Health Officer W. D. Merrill and City Attorney H. L. Maxfield peering down through the open space between the board platform and the building occupied by the Charles E. Snyder plumbing establishment into the fearful pool that pollutes its wooden supports, and charges the whole surrounding atmosphere with its noisome odors. South of this interesting point the raceway has been filled in, so that there is no escape for the foul waters. North of it, unfortunately not far enough north to benefit by the Blodgett mill outlet into the river, the big St. Paul railroad depot sewer empties. The two city officers, after inspecting the place, decided to serve formal notice on the owners of property opposite the west side fire station to fill in the balance of the old abandoned canal at once. Things are even worse across Milwaukee street in the rear of the Tallman and Norcross blocks. While the raceway opens into the river there, there is no movement in the water and the accumulations make the air more unbearable each day. Into this stagnant pond empties a sewer from the Tallman block and there are several outhouses directly over it. A horrible smell emanates from the old abandoned wheel-pit back of Cook's jewelry store and Ranous' pharmacy, which has been boxed up but never filled in, and a big cistern just east of the plating works and northeast of the electric company's plant. It will be a serious problem for the Tallman property to connect either with the River street sewer or the one that is laid in the alley south of the Electric Co.'s plant, and permission will probably not be given to make direct connection with the river. Nevertheless notice has been served on the owners to desist from using the present outlet and if they do not take steps to comply within five days the health officer and city attorney say that they will take steps to have the work done by the city at the owners' expense. The wheel-pit and cistern have also been ordered filled.

Coldwater, Mehl, is still somewhat alarmed over the diphtheria scare, but many object to the drastic action in closing all schools and churches as a result of one death. The present nervousness is due to the severity of the epidemic of ten years ago, when seventy deaths occurred in a short time.
